WE HAVE MASON, MATLOCK AND NOW ... DEDMAN

James C. Dedman is a veteran attorney with over 37 years of experience as a trial lawyer. A graduate of the University of Illinois, Dedman has defended criminal and traffic cases successfully in Central Illinois in Champaign, Coles, Dewitt, Douglas, Ford, Piatt, and Vermillion Counties. Jim's experience ranges from having defended a major pharmaceutical company in state and federal courts concerning its manufacture of diet drugs to defense of a Class I railroad in personal injury matters to representation of lenders in foreclosure and debt collection matters.

DEDMAN LAW OFFICE

"Let ONE Call
Take Care of it ALL!"

Jim is experienced in complex and comprehensive discovery having deposed hundreds of fact witnesses, physicians, medical specialists and experts. He lives in a rural community in the Midwest, forgotten by the modern world, presiding over an empire of various barnyard critters. An avid Civil War Reenactor and Historian, he enjoys researching genealogy, visiting historical locales, and raising chickens. An author of over 20 novels, he has also directed several independent films, a documentary and even a few plays. A practicing attorney at-law in order to fund his research, in his off time he gathers material for his books by making frequent trips to the West. He is the proud father of three girls, all of whom can sit a horse and fire a gun. He must always defer to his wife of over thirty years, however, as she is the one who feeds his horse. His books include: A Woman of Consequence "Once, I ruled this world..." Daphne knew what a trip back to Cumberland County could mean- her beloved Aunt Jane was ill enough to ensure a share of heartache. But a chance meeting with an old friend sparks memories that can no longer be pushed away. A friend lost, back before the great war that nearly tore the Union asunder- Daphne must face the truth. Join her on this amazing journey.

A Jack and Three Queens - A journey west during the gold rush, featuring guts, gold, and a little donkey named Trot. Full House - The much anticipated second part of the "Trot Trilogy!"

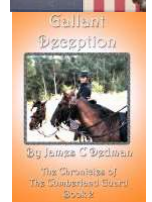

The "Three Queens" continue on their adventures in the American West. The Stolen Weekend, George Grant thought his biggest problem was getting the love of his life to marry him. When the opportunity arrives for a private weekend with just himself and his sweetheart Georgiana, he gladly seizes it. However George's paradise is about to be shattered. It is December 7, 1941, overlooking Pearl Harbor. Just what is that out over the horizon?

The Raid - The long-awaited sequel to "The Stolen Weekend," the Grant family saga continues as the United States truly enters World War 2!

The Bonnie Blue Ribbon - "I will tell you a truth . . . I do not think the war will ever end." The Cumberland Guard was a state militia, filled with veterans of the war with Mexico. When the opportunity for real combat arose, they were swift to answer, but no one could have foretold the consequences. Experience the first days of our nation's greatest conflict through the eyes of Daphne Harrison and others in the Guard. Republic - A coming-of-age story set against the backdrop of the American Civil War, "Republic" is a tale of one woman's efforts to save her family from destruction while remaining true to her convictions and aspirations. Gallant Deception - There are those who would serve their country, but the country doesn't want them. The lesser told side of the Civil War-- its less than honest warriors.

Among my favorite television shows were Perry Mason and Matlock. They were among the best, that is in TV Land, but in real life, I am sure it is different. I have family and friends who are judges and lawyers and they assure me it is very different. Although, I have been summoned for jury duty numerous times, I have only served once. As a general rule at least one side seems not to want a preacher serving on their case, so I have always been dismissed, which is just fine with me.

I have mentioned lawyers in previous issues of the newsletter who are family members, but I don't remember James C. Dedman, featured on page one. Not only is he a lawyer, but also an author.

There are two other attorneys named James Dedman. James M. Dedman III and James Dedman IV.

James IV, is a partner in Gallivan, White & Boyd's (GWB) Charlotte office. He joined GWB in 2006 after moving from Beaumont, Texas, where he had practiced for a number of years. Jim is an experienced litigator with extensive experience in handling complex personal injury and business litigation. Jim focuses his practice on transportation law, torts and insurance practice, drug and medical device litigation, toxic tort litigation, products liability and banking litigation. He also represents clients in a number of industries within these practice areas including:

Transportation - Banking
Commercial Real Estate - Employment

In the newsletter, volume 131, I featured James Monroe "Jim" Dedman III, but will repeat some of the information here.

He has been teaching trial advocacy and other prosecution topics since 1982. He was assistant district attorney general in Columbia, Tennessee, and Memphis, Tennessee, and joined the National College of District Attorneys (now a part of the National District Attorneys Association) in 1982. He is a graduate of Warren Wilson College, Middle Tennessee State University, and Vanderbilt University School of Law. He has taught prosecution training courses in almost every state. He developed the training courses for the National Advocacy Center in Columbia, South Carolina, which focused on analytical advocacy, a concept developed at the Career Prosecutor Course in Houston, Texas, for the National College of District Attorneys. He also developed the NDAA Courtroom Technology courses. He has written many of the training materials used by NCDA and later NDAA as well as articles and chapters in prosecution publications. He has received the Lecturer of Merit award, the Distinguished Faculty award, the NDAA President's award, the Lifetime Education Achievement Award from the Florida Prosecuting Attorneys Association, and an honorary gold record from the Recording Industry Association of America. He is licensed and admitted to federal practice in Tennessee. He is a Vietnam Veteran and served in the United States Army Special Services Entertainment Division. Jim says that the highlight of his military career was having dinner with Gypsy Rose Lee.

Another Dedman lawyer is Marc Dedman.

Marc was civil law-educated in New Orleans and originally licensed in Louisiana. He has practiced the common law for Spicer Rudstrom for over 25 years, now advising Spicer Rudstrom's business and insurance clients.

Marc obtained his bachelor's degree in finance from Loyola University in New Orleans. Among other accomplishments at Loyola, Marc was elected as Student Government Vice President by the student body. He obtained his J.D. from Tulane University and his M.B.A. from Columbia University. At Columbia, Marc was elected to the Honor Board and was the teaching assistant for the Securities Analysis course in the graduate school of business. Marc served four years in the U.S. Army Judge Advocate's General Corps at two duty stations: Ft. McClellan, Alabama and Ft. McNair, Washington, D.C. He is a recipient of the U.S. Army Commendation Medal, the Meritorious Service Medal and the Army Air Assault Badge. He currently serves as Spicer Rudstrom's Managing Partner.

Marc was elected to the 2015 Class of Fellows, Nashville Bar Association. He was a member of the Aquinas College Board of Trustees in Nashville from 2012 to 2017. Marc is currently Chair of the 2017-2018 International Association of Primerus Law Firms International Committee. In that capacity, he will Chair the 2018 Primerus International Convocation to be attended by attorneys from 6 continents throughout the world. Outside his work, Marc has run in, among others, five Boston Marathons, the New York City Marathon, the Marine Corps Marathon, the Chicago Marathon, and the Bogota, Colombia Half Marathon.

As a 40 year Genealogist, I have found many documents and articles and I have been to many places throughout the United States. There is one place for me however that really gave me my "Aw struck" day when I found the place. It was one that "I had no words". All I could do was walk around and just look at the place. Look at all the "names". To me, I struck GOLD that day . I found FAMILY. To find so many in one place ,at one time is what left me with no words. I still to this day couldn't tell you how I was feeling on that day because there are no words . I had finally found a Cemetery with numerous family members within it. It wasn't until after I got home -long after- that I could finally put that day to words...

ABBOTTS CREEK CEMETERY

As I sit here looking upon your grave-stones, I can only wonder what it was like when you were alive. Did you have a hard life, were you happy? When you died, family and friends dressed in dark colored clothing gathered to say "Good bye". Flowers of many colors with ribbons attached are set upon the graves. Did many tears fall? Were hearts grieving as prayers are said and songs are sung? Did many hats tilt for you as the men walked away? Days and perhaps weeks go by and they come back again to say "Hello" if only for a few moments only to say "Good bye" again. Then your visitor goes home. As time passes the visits get fewer and fewer ,only to become no visits at all. You thought you were forgotten, you weren't.

Some stones here are more than 200 years old now, many even older still. You all may think you have been left behind as generations pass you by. Weather and Time are putting marks upon your stones. Some of you are breaking , Some of you have fallen to the ground from where they once stood. Some are leaning. Some have sunk into the ground. Some are Rocks with your names etched upon them . Some have been etched with a knife. Yet some, Though they are dirty and covered with moss, are still standing tall.

I want you to know that you are not forgotten, even after so many years . Your names are written down in the families bibles, and your children's names too. I would bet even your grandchildren can be found in many books.. You are talked about in family journals. I wish I could read some of those just to read about you. Just to read about the way you all lived back then. To read about how you worked. How you played. What Sundays were like. What school was like. I want to know it all. If I could only get my hands on old family journals. I have no journals so all I can do is look at these gravestones and let my imagination take me to the 1700 and 1800's.

Until then my search continues for every journal, every book I can find about you. I want you to know you are also included in many family trees. Your descendants are many, so, know that you are not forgotten. Your memory is so cherished by so many. Your stories are well sought after and many are seeking it to this day.

As I sit here I see many of these headstones really clearly , many you can't read at all. What happens with those you can't read? I wonder how will future generations find you? They have to find you just like I did. I know others will come looking, I know somebody will come looking for you. I came looking for you. You don't know me , but I know you. I'm your 8x's Granddaughter . And I'm your 7x's Granddaughter. And I'm your 6x's Granddaughter. And 6x-7x- 8x Grand Niece to all of you. The rest of you, you are my Cousins. -- Written by Hazel Inglis

You may be asking yourself "Why was she so "Aw struck". People find cemeteries everyday right? This is very true. Researchers with a few dollars to spend do travel to find cemeteries everyday and they go home again. Let me tell you a little bit of my own story now if I may. I was born in Montana and became interested in Genealogy when I was about 18 years old and did not have a few dollars to spend.. My husband was in the military so I have lived in a few places. Lets face it, unless you've been in associated with the military you don't usually leave the place your born in. Call if fate, call it what you will. Was it meant to be? Was I suppose to find the cemetery? Was I suppose to come full circle? I am now living in the state where several " different lines" of my family migrated to back in the late 1600's! Abbotts Creek Cemetery is in High Point N.C. just less than 2 hours from where I live. Only back then it was called "Brown Town". To me, It was fate, I have come "Full Circle". I was meant to be here. I came back home.

HUSBAND AND WIFE TAG TEAM

Chad and Julia Dedmon have traveled since 2007 both locally and internationally as a tag-team couple in ministry. They are based out of Bethel Church in Redding, CA. They have a beautiful baby daughter, Brielle Grace. Chad has worked most recently as a full-time pastor in the Global Legacy Department as the BSSM Alumni

Director and in the Bethel School of Supernatural Ministry at Bethel Church. Chad is currently ministering itinerantly and pursuing short-term missions opportunities in the nations by working to create evangelistic crusades and events with friends and ministry partners. Julia is a full-time wife and mother, works in the real estate business, and travels with Chad for ministry. They are graduates of the Bethel School of Ministry and have enjoyed serving as youth/young adult pastors at the Vineyard Community Church in Laguna Niguel, CA. Chad and Julia have enjoyed connecting and interfacing with Global Legacy churches and hosting conferences in partnership with Iris Global.

After being ordained at Bethel Church in 2008 by Drs. Heidi and Rolland Baker of Iris Global, along with Shawn Bolz, and the fathers and mothers of the Bethel Movement, they have been grateful to watch the ways God has connected them in 25+ nations with like-hearted kingdom minded leaders. They are dedicated to service in underdeveloped nations and have co-founded a non-profit called Encountering Jesus Ministries. This charity exists as a public benefit 501(c)(3) in partnership with Iris Global.

Chad enjoys being a husband and father, traveling, living life to the fullest, speaking and demonstrating the kingdom, releasing the healing power of God, and activating the church to step into its full potential. In the end of 2011, Chad co-authored a book called "The Risk Factor". This book provides practical teaching and real life stories to help inspire new risks in your faith journey. On a personal note, Chad is passionate about surfing and the surf industry, basketball, snowboarding, volleyball, biking, paddle-boarding, yoga and being outside experiencing God in nature and with his community.

Julia enjoys being a wife and mother, has earned her Bachelor of Arts in Music from Azusa Pacific University in Los Angeles, CA., She is a graduate of the Bethel School of Ministry and Worship Programs Julia loves coaching, developing, releasing, and empowering individuals to become everything God has called them to be.

She likes to lead worship and sing prophetically with spontaneous songs and enjoys ministering with Chad. On a personal note, she loves cooking and cultivating a balanced lifestyle through organic whole foods, soaking prayer and meditation, as well as in the areas of fitness and practicing yoga.

Chad and Julia love seeing individuals come into a place of highest personal potential. They inspire by living out their faith and demonstrating the kingdom of God wherever they go. They have a heart to see the Church operate in the fullness of abundance; seeing love, miracles, relational health, justice, and healing displayed in the corporate body of Christ.

In addition to traveling, Julia and Chad have a pastoral background with youth and young adults when they lived in Orange County, CA for several years. They have been married 11 years and are based out of Bethel Church in Redding, CA. Her favorite part of life is being a dedicated wife and mother. She is also active in the marketplace as a real estate agent.

Chad is the son of Kevin Dedmon, who has a traveling ministry focused on equipping, empowering, and activating the Church for supernatural evangelism through signs and wonders, healing, and the prophetic. He earned a Master's degree in church leadership from Vanguard University, and has been in full-time ministry for more than 25 years. He and his wife are part of Bethel Church in Redding, CA.

LESSIE DEDMON

Lessie Rene (Boggan) Dedmon, age 91, of Navasota, Texas passed away on Friday, February 3, 2017 at College Station Medical Center while surrounded by family. She was born on September 29, 1925 in Sweetwater, Texas. She moved all over Texas as a child while her father worked on the railroad. In 1943, she graduated from Milano High School in Milano, Texas. On July 3, 1946, at the age of 20, Lessie Rene married Thomas "Benton" Dedmon in Hearne, Texas and they have remained married for over 70 years. The couple lived in Navasota their entire marriage and had 2 children, Bennie Renea (Dedmon) Nobles and Thomas Benton "Tommie" Dedmon, Jr. Lessie Rene and Benton joined First Baptist Church of Navasota in March of 1953 and they were very involved for many years. Lessie Rene's passion at the church was working in the nursery and she was very proud to tell you that she did so for over 27 years. Some of her favorite hobbies included sewing and crocheting blankets which she shared with many. Lessie Rene also loved helping the elderly while volunteering at the nursing home where she made lots of friends who would later care for her during her 8 year stay. Although Alzheimer's Disease stole the last years of her life, we are comforted in knowing that Jesus is the ultimate healer and Alzheimer's does not exist in heaven. She will be dearly missed by all.

Lessie Rene is preceded in death by her parents, Frank and Susie (Holland) Boggan; her son Tommie; brother Vester Boggan and sister-in-law Carrie; and sister Winnie Belle (Boggan) Moore and brother-in-law Pleas.
